Dr. Daniel Shapiro

Daniel Shapiro, Ph.D., is associate director of the world-renowned Harvard Negotiation Project, the group that wrote the international bestseller Getting to Yes. He is also co-author of the new bestseller, Beyond Reason: Using Emotions as You Negotiate.

Beyond Reason is based on his breakthrough research highlighting five “core concerns” that lie at the heart of any conflict. His presentations, hailed as “nothing short of mesmerizing,” offer straightforward, powerful advice on how to use these core concerns to turn even the toughest conflict into an opportunity for mutual gain.

He has been honored with the Cloke-Millen Peacemaker of the Year award. His extensive international experience includes training members of the Serbian Parliament, Mideast negotiators and senior U.S. officials.

We look forward to Dr. Shapiro’s second visit to Kentucky after his well-received presentation at the Colloquium on Mediation in Kentucky in January 2006.
